Q3

Briefly describe the nominee's experience and qualifications to serve on the RSTC:

The nominee has extensive experience in the energy sector, with a strong focus on the security and reliability of the Bulk Electric System (BES). Currently serving as a senior leader within ERCOT, they are slated to assume the role of Vice President and Chief Information Security Officer (CISO) in January. Throughout their career, the nominee has been instrumental in managing key cybersecurity initiatives that safeguard critical infrastructure.

Their leadership has driven significant advancements in grid security, including the development of a comprehensive NERC CIP compliance program that successfully met Version 1 standards for generation and transmission assets during their tenure leading cybersecurity efforts at the Lower Colorado River Authority.

In addition to their technical expertise, the nominee has built strong partnerships across the public and private sectors, collaborating with federal and state agencies to address risks that could impact grid reliability. Their well-rounded experience in both cybersecurity strategy and operational implementation makes them an ideal candidate to contribute to the RSTC's mission of enhancing grid security and reliability.
